This Physical Activity Disclaimer Notice should be read before considering the information on our site. No website is a substitute for professional advice.

The contents of this website are for informational purposes only and our Site is intended for professionals that teach Tai Chi Chuan and related activities. The information on this website is not to be considered advice. The use of any information provided on this site is solely at your own risk. At no time should any of the information on this site be considered a substitute or replacement for advice from an individual qualified in the subject.

This site in no way makes any claim to your physical safety or wellbeing when participating in any sort of physical activity. Martial arts training is a strenuous physical contact activity in which there is significant risk to the participants. Participation can result in injuries or damages of any sort, including permanent disability, deformity, or death. Also, always inspect the practice area, the equipment, your partners, and yourself for risks before starting. If you see something that you think is unsafe you should immediately tell the instructor and decline to participate in that activity.

This site is not a substitute for, nor does it replace in any way the supervision of a qualified instructor. Always obtain the help and supervision of a qualified instructor before starting and while participating in any fitness program.

You should not rely on this information as a substitute for, nor does it replace in any way professional medical advice, diagnosis, or treatment. You should consult and be cleared by your physician or other health care professional before starting and while participating in any fitness program. Do not start any fitness program if your physician or healthcare provider advises against it. Do not disregard, avoid or delay obtaining medical or health related advice from your health-care professional because of something you may have read on this site.

This site is not a substitute for, nor does it replace in any way doing one's own due diligence in regard to the subject matter it contains as to its efficacy and timeliness. Developments in medical, nutritional, kinesiological and martial art research may impact the health, fitness and nutritional advice that appears here. No assurance can be given that the information contained in this site will always include the most recent findings or developments with respect to the particular material.
